Stern v. Commissioner, 21 T.C. 155 (1953)

A taxpayer must establish ownership of property in the year the loss is claimed to be entitled to a deduction for that loss, even when the property was subject to confiscation and later restitution under foreign law.

Summary

The petitioner, Stern, sought a loss deduction for property allegedly taken from his Austrian factory (

© 2025 SCOTUSreports.com. All rights reserved.